THE FARMER'S AUTO.

Several hundred thousand American farmers have invested or will invest in automobiles this fall. And every such investment will add to the attractiveness of rural life, and do its share in keeping boys and girls on the farms.

With an automobile, the neighborhood is quadrupled in size. Visits to town or to friends are made easy.

General gatherings at local points are stimulated and made more frequent. There is a better exchange of ideas, easier co-operation, pleasanter life.

There is likewise a most enormous increase of interest in good roads.

Every farmer who buys an auto becomes forthwith a champion of better highways. One experience of getting stalled in the mud when out for a pleasure drive is enough to convert the most stubborn opponent of "new-fangled notions."
